High Tibial Osteotomy System

In the treatment of lower extremity malalignment and osteoarthritis, high tibial osteotomy is a procedure that allows for the realignment of the lower extremity and thereby either shifts the weight-bearing access to the healthier portion of the knee or corrects the alignment deformity.

This procedure is performed by cutting the tibia and with the use of an opening jack allows the surgeon to dial in the exact correction desired to correct the angular deformity or shift the weight bearing axis to a desired position in the knee.

An anatomically precontoured low-profile A/P wedge plate and low-profile head screws is applied to fixate the osteotomy.
